Congratulation on making this investment to be happier with your dog! I am so glad to be helping you.

Now that you are going through my training program, you'll start noticing other people who are in the same situation you were in when you started this course. Kind of noticing red cars after you buy a red car.

I will work hard to earn your appreciation and I rely on word of mouth. Please keep me in mind when you see friends, family or perhaps even people in public (like the dog park!) who are struggling with their dogs.

The best thing to do is to send them to my website at www.saroboghozian.com.

Thank you so much!

Reminders:

- Focus on 70% mental Stimulation and 30% physical stimulation with your dog on daily basis.
- Follow the dog's five daily essential needs.
- Remember, training is building a communication system between you and your dog.
- Use the formal training that you learn within your dog's daily life for lifestyle training.
- For the next few weeks you are learning a new language and you are practicing it with your dog so, don't expect results until you and your dog have learned this new language.
- Use play and praise and create a fun atmosphere in your daily 15 minute of focus training session with your dog. Leave everything aside. Turn off everything. Shut down your life...during your 15-minute focus training session.
- Start the training in the living room and in a week or two, move on to the hallway or back yard, then after few weeks to the front yard and then, the street and finally the park within 2 to 3 months.
- To create balanced form of training, you need to praise and correct your dog.
- Remember, dogs need and love to be told what to do. So, tell your dog what to do throughout the day. Your dog won't hate you.
- Keep your dog on leash and only off leash when you are in a safe environment and with safe dogs to play only.
- Be firm with your dog but not angry.
- Be calm but feel the energy.
- Be clear but not overwhelmed.
- Change the way you are around your dog.
